Track Information

This track explores how organizations can truly care for both people and the planet—and how that mission becomes even more critical in the era of AI and Generative AI. It champions green HR practices that reduce environmental impact, while nurturing workplaces that are diverse and inclusive, where everyone is valued and supported. We highlight the importance of employee well-being, recognizing that trust, morale, and mutual commitment lie at the heart of healthy organizations. We celebrate ethical and transformational leadership, which guides with integrity, vision, and care. And we delve into the role of workplace spirituality and green leadership, cultivating purpose and environmental stewardship in everyday organizational life. Finally, the track firmly positions itself as a strong advocate for sustainable work practices in the age of AI and Generative AI, encouraging responsible integration of emerging technologies with people-centered and sustainability-minded leadership.
